Dear Michelle,

Once again you have not kept your word.

I have someone else, one who is unemployed and has plenty of time, who is prepared to do what you have not done.

I would like you to please arrange to bring everything, including the diskette and whatever you have typed, as soon as you can.

Please let me know when you will do that so I can be certain to be here and so I can arrange to deliver it to the woman who is waiting for it.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
